

Mailing type service

Mailing types or channels are used to define mailing interests and categories (for example corporate news, events, support, bug fixes, etc.).

Users can select the mailing channels of their interest that are defined by the administrator.

