

User component

The User component represents a single user in an application domain. Single user are mostly maintained for intranet or extranet web application.

Application administrators can easily create and manage application users online. A user can be granted or denied access to hierarchical item nodes, services and functionalities in the application domain.

