

Simple search component

The simple search component is used for placing simple search and index engines into web sites and applications.

The search index can index multiple tree nodes in an application hierarchically and is always up to date with the lastest content changes.

Also see 'Extended search and index services' for more information on Xsdot site and application search functionalities.

